QWERTY is looking for lead & assistant iOS development instructors for our 8-Week Mobile Development Course this summer.

Are you a college student studying computer science?

Are you an iOS developer looking to share your knowledge?

Do you have an affinity for the iOS platform?

Are you that person that can speak technically, but also break things down in layman terms?

Did we also mention that we will provide a stipend and housing for the summer in trendy, midtown Detroit?

If teaching your skills to a group of motivated high school graduates sounds interesting, you should work with QWERTY.

For more information on how to apply, contact us at hello@goqwerty.org.